

Wood's Laxative Mineral Water.

Well Recently Bored 137 Feet Deep, Situated
One Mile West of Hopkinsville.

ANALYSIS OF WATER.

By Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky:
One gallon contains 321.6 grains of solid matter (5.53 grams per liter) composed mainly of sodium chloride (common salt), sodium sulphate (Glauber's salt), with small amount of calcium sulphur, calcium carbonate, magnesium carbonate and sodium sulphide. Hydrogen sulphide free and combined is present to the extent of 5.0 grains per gallon. There are traces of sodium iodide and sodium bromide, iron, silica, potassium and lithium salts. There is a salt-sulphur water and would doubtless have a laxative effect in addition to the other properties of a sulphur water.

S. D. AVERITT, Chemist.

The following testimonial is submitted, with signature:

FEW PRACTICAL HINTS

BAD THING TO HUNT UP UNNECESSARY WORK FOR BOYS.

Make All Necessary Preparations for Spring Work.—Get Harness, Plows, Implements and Everything Else in Proper Shape.

If you can possibly afford it, keep one horse for your wife's uses, and let nobody else ride or drive it.

Hope you did not make the boys work hard all through the holiday season when they came home from college. Of course they ought to help out whenever it is necessary, but it is a bad thing to hunt up unnecessary work just to keep a growing boy jumping.

Better be honest and square with your boy every time. Cannot fool him very much, because he generally knows his father as well as the old gentleman knows himself.

How are the roads in your neighborhood? Better organize a good-roads club. If your neighbors do not take any interest try to arrange for a good talk on the subject at the institute meetings.

It is not too early to begin to make arrangements for spring work. It will

LIVE STOCKSWINE RAISING AS A BUSINESS

Breeder Should Not Make It Secondary to Farming Operations—Why Many Men Fail.

In a recent discussion of the points to be observed by a hog breeder, W. F. McFadden, secretary of the American Poland China Record association, said:

The hog man should make hog raising his principal business; he should not make it secondary to his farming operations, and it should be the central idea around which revolve all his active business operations. A hog man should be a hog man 365 days in the year. He criticized those breeders whose enthusiasm was short-lived, urging them to take pride in their business and in every little detail concerning it. He thought that crates should be made light, good and attractive and that stationery should be neat, to the point and indicative of the methods of doing business. He thought good stationery added dignity to the business and made a good impression.

Concerning what to raise, he said that a good many hog men failed because they did not offer for sale the kind of stock the buyers were wanting to buy. He appreciated that it was an art for any man to recognize what kind of a hog would be in demand and be prepared to supply it. He urged breeders to keep clear of fads and hog bubbles. He believed that salesmanship, says the Oklahoma Farmer, was important and that it was only possible to be a good salesman by having a thorough knowledge of individuality of animals as well as a knowledge of good business practices.

Talking about feeding and care, he said that a hog should be well bred and that improvement was the result of good care and good feed. There was no success without these and good judgment in selection.

SOUTHDOWN SHEEP IN FAVOR

One of Most Popular Breeds and Quite Extensively Bred—Furnished Good Quality of Fleece.

The Southdown is one of our popular mutton breeds of sheep and is quite extensively bred. The breed is hornless; the face and legs are of a gray-brown color. The best rams, when fat, often weigh from 175 to 200 pounds, the ewes from 125 to 150. The body is rather blocky. This breed furnishes a fleece of good quality, weighing from six to seven pounds. The wool is rather short, but of medium fine texture. The mutton is of excellent quality. The Southdown ewes often produce two lambs at a birth, and sometimes three. They are a very valuable breed for early lambs as the lambs grow rapidly. The Southdown is an English breed, taking its name from the Southdowns, the broken and hilly lands of Sussex and neighboring counties of England.

MORE HOG PASTURES NEEDED

Most Reliable Crops Are Rape, Rye, Wheat and Barley—Sown on Specially Prepared Land.

According to the department of agriculture, to produce pork profitably hogs must feed and graze continuously on pastures and crops particularly planted for them. Very seldom is the growing of hogs for slaughter a source of profit, unless proper grazing and feeding methods are followed.

In the spring, summer and fall there are many crops for pasturing hogs, but during the winter the crops to select from are limited. On almost every farm the production and keeping of hogs in winter is expensive, and generally it is not profitable for the reason that large quantities of corn are fed without products of green crops. More winter grazing is needed, for which many crops are adapted.

The most reliable are rape, rye, wheat and barley. For grazing purposes these pasturing crops for hogs should be sown on specially well-drained and prepared land, that is either rich or has received a liberal application of manure. Good winter pasturage is not obtained except on the best-drained lands.

Profitable Side Line.

One factor about the sheep business is worthy of special emphasis. This industry is one of the most profitable side lines that can fit the operations of the general farm. Sheep require little attention during the sowing, haying, cultivating or harvesting seasons when the time of the farmer is needed elsewhere. It is during periods when the farmer has plenty of leisure that the necessity arises for securing the stock additional care and attention.

A Good Type of Dairy Cow.

be on top of us before we know it, and then what a rush there will be to get harness, plows and everything else in shape. Some of us won't have time to do it properly if we wait too long.

Don't get grouchy because your neighbor has a better house or a bigger barn than you have. Maybe your mortgage is not as big as his, and that's a heap of comfort.

The chronic borrower is a great nuisance in the neighborhood. Of course we are all glad to lend to a man who is just getting a start, but the man who is able to buy everything he needs, but continues to use his neighbor's tools, ought to be ashamed of himself.

Not going to send the boy to an agricultural college because you had no such education yourself? That's a mighty poor excuse. Now, right down in the bottom of your heart, are you not afraid that the boy will learn to be a better farmer than you, and you are not manly enough to be proud of him?

If the scale has made its appearance in your orchard, you should begin spraying at once and never stop until it is subdued. Your neighbor may be working hard to keep his fruit trees in good condition, and it is not fair that insects should be allowed to flourish in your orchard to be blown across the fence into your neighbor's trees.

I sold a cow last fall that was giving six quarts of milk at each milking. She was driven five miles and housed in a strange stable. That evening she gave just one quart, and only four quarts the next morning. She was treated kindly enough, and the decrease in her milk flow was caused entirely by nervousness. That's an object lesson for men who occasionally kick and beat their cows.

COLD FRAMES MORE POPULAR

Great Many Farmers and Gardeners Realize What It Pays to Grow Vegetables Under Sash.

Frames are used much more largely in all parts of the country than a few years ago, notwithstanding the fact that greenhouse construction has been more active. A great many gardeners have realized that it pays to grow some vegetables under 3x6 foot sash. This makes it a good business proposition and when frames are used on a large scale too much care cannot be exercised in the preparation of the soil. It should be fine, fairly level and contain liberal amounts of sand and humus. If to be used in the summer the cross-bars should be easily removed so that wheel hoes or horse cultivators can be used without difficulty, running from end to end of the long frames. The sash should fit snugly on the side boards, so that as little cold as possible will be admitted under the sash. Lettuce and radish are especially desirable for frame culture.

No Excuse for Cholera.

If it were not for hog cholera pork raisers would be living in the lap of luxury. The time will come when there will be no more excuse for hog cholera than for the human cholera that until a century or so ago periodically devastated Europe and America. Both are essentially fifth diseases.

Sugar Cane.

Sugar cane is a species of grass. The stalks or canes resemble corn stalks of regions further north. Great quantities of cane are grown in Louisiana and other southern states. As the canes approach maturity they throw out a long smooth hollow joint termed the arrow. As the joints ripen the leaves wither and fall away with the stem. The juice is extracted by being pressed in a sugar mill between several heavy rollers. The juice is forced out by pressure and is immediately boiled down to prevent fermentation.

Always.

There has always been a tendency on the part of saints, philosophers and excitable people generally to feel sure that what is wrong with the world is ignorance—that if only people might be induced to listen they could not but incline their hearts to the attractions of manifest righteousness.
